YERBA MATE

Yerba Mate (“mah-tay”) is made from a small species of the holly family native to South America, where the Guarani Indians consumed it for hundreds of years. During processing, the freshly picked leaves are dehydrated and smoked through firing, ground into fine pieces, then allowed to age for at least six months. Yerba Mate contains stimulating chemical compounds that are very similar to those found in coffee and tea. Yerba Mate has an earthy, vegetal taste when consumed in its traditional green form, and a smooth, darker flavor when roasted. It also blends well with many other botanicals.
